Appendix 1

Division of Responsibilities for the roles of the non-executive Chair of the Board (Group Chair) and the Chief Executive Officer (CEO), and responsibilities of the Senior Independent Director.

The Group Chair's primary role is to lead the Board and to ensure that it is independent, effective and complementary. The CEO's primary role is to provide the overall management and leadership of the Company. It is the responsibility of both to uphold and promote the highest standards of integrity and probity within the Company and its subsidiaries (the 'Group').

In order to ensure the success of the Company, it is essential that the Group Chair and CEO have a close relationship, based upon trust, with the Group Chair providing support and advice while respecting the importance of the CEO's executive responsibilities. It is particularly important that both promote effective relationships and open communication, both inside and outside the Boardroom, between non-executive and executive directors.

The respective duties and responsibilities of each of the Group Chair, CEO and Senior Independent Director, as agreed by the Board, are detailed below:

Chair of the Board (Group Chair)

It is the Group Chair's responsibility to:

- Chair Board meetings, general meetings and Nomination Committee meetings;
- Lead the Board and ensure its effectiveness on all aspects of its role;
- Run the Board and set the agenda for Board meetings. The agenda should take full account of the issues and the concerns of all Board members. Agendas should be forward looking and concentrate on strategic matters. The Group Chair must ensure that clear strategic objectives for the Group are agreed by the Board and reviewed and that the Board is able to monitor their implementation. In general, the Group Chair should ensure that the Board receives accurate, timely and clear information, in particular concerning the Group's performance, to enable the Board to make sound decisions, monitor effectively and provide useful and wise advice;
- Manage the Board to ensure that sufficient time is allowed for discussion of complex or contentious issues, where appropriate arranging for informal meetings beforehand to enable thorough preparation for the Board discussion. It is particularly important that non-executive directors have sufficient time to consider critical issues;
- Encourage active engagement by all the members of the Board and promote a culture of openness and debate;
- Ensure a clear structure for, and the effective running of, Board Committees;
- Be available to shareholders, be confident that there are effective communications with shareholders and that the Board has a clear understanding of the views of the major investors, including their major issues and concerns;
- Maintain an effective and complementary Board, initiating change and planning succession in Board appointments, subject to Board and shareholder approval. Take the lead in identifying and meeting the development needs of individual directors as well as addressing the development needs of the Board as a whole with a view to enhancing its overall effectiveness as a team. This includes reviewing the performance of the Board and its committees at least once a year and acting on the results of performance reviews. The Group Chair should also ensure that directors continually update their skills and the knowledge and familiarity with the Group required to fulfil their role both on the Board and on Board Committees;

- Ensure that new non-executive directors receive a properly constructed Induction programme that is comprehensive and appropriate, facilitated by the Company Secretary;
- Hold meetings with the non-executive directors, without the executive directors present;
- Ensure that appropriate plans are in place for the succession of the executive directors of the Company;
- Provide support and advice (a mentoring role) to the CEO;
- Be responsible for the response to any takeover approach received by the Company;
- Ensure that the Group operates within an appropriate corporate governance framework;
- Report personally in their annual statements how the principles relating to the role and effectiveness of the Board have been applied;
- Ensure that the Group's values are maintained and observed at all times;
- Represent the Group as and when necessary; and
- Agree the annual performance objectives of the CEO.

Chief Executive Officer (CEO)

It is the CEO's responsibility to manage the business and to drive it forward, including to:

- Formulate and propose the strategic direction of the Group (including its environmental and social objectives), and incorporate this into a business plan, for regular discussion and agreement by the Board;
- Implement the Board's agreed strategic business plan in accordance with the Group's values;
- Ensure that Board decisions are effectively implemented and progress reported back to the Board;
- Propose, and then ensure the implementation of, Group policies as agreed by the Board;
- Have overall responsibility for the operational and financial performance of the Group;
- Receive and consider reports from the senior executives;
- Manage the Group's affairs and resources on behalf of the Board, except for those reserved for decision by the Board;
- Ensure the Group has appropriate organisational structures;
- Provide clear leadership and inspire and support the Group's colleagues in all areas of the Group's business, including the development of ideas, products and operations;
- Draw up plans for the succession to the key management positions within the Group, ensure that appropriate plans are made for other levels of management within the business, and ensure that these plans are discussed with the Board and progress reported. This includes the identification, development and promotion of high performing employees into appropriate positions of leadership including proposing new executive directors;

- Ensure that key relationships with customers, suppliers and government are fostered;
- Be the main day to day contact with existing and potential investors, providing the appropriate level of information about the Group's business, its results and strategic direction;
- Act as a liaison between the Group and the public, with responsibility for promoting the profile of the Group;
- Ensure that there are appropriate processes in place to identify and to manage risk; and
- Agree the annual performance objectives for the other executive directors.

Senior Independent Director (SID)

The Senior Independent Director is required to:

- Be available to shareholders if they have concerns which contact through the normal channels of Group Chair, CEO or CFO has failed to resolve or for which such contact is inappropriate.
- Be available to work with the Group Chair, other directors and shareholders, to resolve significant issues and Board disputes when the normal processes for doing so are not possible.
- Chair the Nomination Committee when it is considering succession to the role of Group Chair.
- Meet with non-executive directors at least once a year to appraise the Group Chair's performance and on such other occasions as are deemed appropriate.
